Staffing Services for Health IT Transformation Resources

Healthcare organizations are faced with the daunting task of enterprise Health IT systems adoption. These programs bring extensive integration to various disparate internal and external systems as well as clinical information and data sharing across the extended healthcare community, all while maintaining a comprehensive privacy and compliance program that assures patient confidentiality. Additionally, your organization is faced with role modification and extensive training to understand and leverage these new technologies. As part of the clinical technology transformation process, these resources often do not yet exist in your organization.

Ideal Health IT can complement your existing team to help you deliver successful clinical technology transformation across your enterprise. Our expert clinical and IT consultants have extensive training on new clinical technology and processes to meet clinical, operational and technical objectives and help you deliver success. As an on-demand service we provide consulting resources with the following disciplines:

- Program and project management
- Business, clinical and operational change management
- Clinical operations workflow re-engineering
- System implementation, configuration and integration
- Integration and interoperability architecture
- Data integrity testing and assurance
- System optimization and service delivery planning
- Compliance and quality reporting
- Training and go-live support and mentoring
